Dear Mr. DeGlopper:

It was a pleasure to have met you and your family at the ceremony for your distinguished son in Buffalo, New York. At a time like this there is very little anyone can say but I want you and your family to know of the deep sympathy and reverence the Department of the Army feels for you in your bereavement.

As I stated in my talk in Buffalo, the memory of your son's heroic death should make all Americans feel very humble. His death has immortalized him as a great American and a great Soldier and whenever his name is mentioned, we in the Army will stand at a salute.

With kindest personal regards and hoping to have the pleasure of meeting you again, I am

F: Hello, who is this speaking please?
D: This is Charles L. DeGlopper's daughter-in-law.
F: I see. I understand that Mr. DeGlopper is there, but can't speak on the telephone. Is that right?
D: Yes sir.
F: This is the Office of The Quartermaster General, Colonel Freeman speaking. I wanted to speak to Mr. DeGlopper about the return of his son's remains. The city officials up there and the Veterans' Organizations are very anxious that they have some sort of a ceremony on the return of the remains and before we will consent to it, we have to get the approval of the family. Would the family agree to that?
D: Yes, they told the man who called in that respect this morning.
F: They told him.
D: Yes.
F: The remains are due to arrive there sometime on July 7th. That will be agreeable to Mr. DeGlopper then?
D: Yes, that will be agreeable to him.
F: I am glad you agree to that because they will probably have a very nice ceremony and I am sure that the family will be pleased with it.
D: They will be, I am sure.
F: Thank you very much and I will arrange it that way then.
D: All right. Goodbye.

Dear Mr. DeGlopper:

The people of the United States, through the Congress have authorized the disinterment and final burial of the heroic dead of World War II. The Quartermaster General of the Army has been entrusted with this sacred responsibility to the honored dead. The records of the War Department indicate that you may be the nearest relative of the above-named deceased, who gave his life in the service of his country.
